

Jenny Mackenzie, Ph.D. is a compelling, humorous, and authentic motivational speaker. She is able to speak on the following topics with research-based knowledge, captivating clips from her documentary films, and real-life experience that motivates, captivates, and inspires audiences:

- Sports as a Social Change Movement
- The Physical, Social, and Emotional Win in Youth Sports
- Social Impact Documentary Film Making
- Kick Like A Girl, Lead Like A Woman™
- Kick Like A Girl, Invest Like A Woman™

Dr. Mackenzie has presented for schools, nonprofits, and corporations. Her clients include Merrill Lynch, Zions Bank, A Voice for Utah Children, and numerous private, parochial, and public schools, colleges and universities.

Dr. Mackenzie holds a bachelors degree from Brown University, an MSW from Simmons College, and a Ph.D. from the University of Utah. Believing "we learn by watching and modeling others and girls need to have women as their role models in all aspects of their lives," Jenny coached all her three daughters in a variety of sports. Then, after a 20-year career working as a clinician and researcher developing programs for non-profit organizations that focused on the empowerment of women and girls, she went back to school to pursue documentary filmmaking because of its unique ability to impart social change.

DR. Mackenzie is currently touring with her film Kick Like A Girl and doing motivational speaking engagements all over the country. She screens the film, and then follows up with a motivational speech and Q&A with the audience. She has received rave reviews feedback from audiences everywhere. 100% of her clients and organizations say they "would like to have her back and would highly recommend her." If you would like any further information about academic prices, non-profit, and corporate prices, or to book Dr. Mackenzie for a screening and speaking engagement, please contact us at:

Jenny@jennymackenziefilms.com

801.554.6489

Testimonials and reference:

"Screening 'Kick Like a Girl' and hosting the dynamic Jenny Mackenzie at Zions Bank's corporate event helped inspire our officers. Employees and their clients who attended learned about the power of women's leadership opportunities, the motivational event took the idea of team building to a new level."

Cece Mitchell, Senior Vice President

Women's Financial Group

Zions Bank

801.844.7909

"Teachable moments present themselves to us so often, and in this case it was a lesson from third graders recognizing gender equity issues and doing their part to break down those barriers for all women. We were thrilled to be able to have this opportunity to present to our students how we can all be agents of social change. Dr. Mackenzie and her magical and informative presentation inspired all of us."

Erin Brennen, Director of Athletics

Pine Manor College

brennene@pmc.edu

Whitney Retallic, Ph.D., Sociology Professor

Pine Manor College

Jenny Mackenzie's keynote address was humorous, interesting, and entertaining. It was one of our best annual fund raising luncheon's; in large part because of the fabulous motivational and inspirational message that was shared in Jenny's speech. I would highly recommend Jenny.

Karen Crompton

A Voice for Children, nonprofit

801-364-1182